Elasticity is a key characteristic for all types of brushes. It determines how well a brush reacts to pressure and returns to its shape. A brush with high elasticity is easy to control and provides even color distribution while returning to its fine tip after each stroke. A brush with low elasticity is more flexible to pressure and less controlled for unpredictable, vibrant strokes.

An 'allround' brush is designed to handle various painting techniques and mediums. The more allround a brush is, the more versatile it becomes, enabling a broad range of techniques across different media such as watercolor, acrylic, and oil paints. In contrast, brushes that are not allround are typically specialized for one specific medium or technique.

The characteristic of capacity refers to how much water and pigment a brush can hold. A brush with high capacity can hold a larger amount of water and color, allowing for longer, uninterrupted strokes and smoother transitions. Brushes with lower capacity are better suited for detailed work or for techniques that require more control over smaller amounts of color.

The hardness of a brush's fibres determines how it behaves with different media and techniques. Stiffer brushes are less flexible and are ideal for working with thicker, pasty paints such as acrylics and oils, where controlled, textured strokes are important. In contrast, softer brushes are more flexible and are therefore perfect for watercolors.

Together, they create a perfect harmony that gives the brush its exceptional capacity, smooth color release, and precise control.

This innovative fibre blend makes these brushes ideal for watercolor painting, as they represent a true breakthrough in brush technology. While the industry often focuses on mimicking either Kolinsky or squirrel hair, we have developed a specialized synthetic mix that offers artists unparalleled versatility.

KUM® MEMORY POINT®

-Synthetic brushes for the highest demands

Exclusively Developed High-Tech Fibers

The KUM® Memory Point® brushes are crafted with advanced synthetic fibers designed exclusively for KUM®. These fibres surpass traditional synthetic materials in performance and innovation, offering features tailored to meet the specific needs of artists.

Perfectly shaped brush tip

The Memory Point® brushes have perfectly shaped tips that ensure precise application with all brush sizes. Whether for intricate details or delicate strokes, the refined tip allows for exceptional control and accuracy.

Outstanding elasticity

The high-tech fibres used in these brushes ensure excellent elasticity. Even after repeated use, the brush tip reliably returns to its original shape. This resilience ensures long-lasting performance that maintains precision even with intensive use.

High absorption and storage capacity

The Memory Point® brushes have been developed for both fine details and large-area work and are characterized by very good paint absorption and release. The brush head consists of filaments with different diameters, which minimizes empty spaces and improves paint storage. The textured surface of the fibres enlarges the surface area for optimal paint absorption and enables smooth color transitions and even coverage.

Shape retention through heat treatment

The "memory" capability of these brushes ensures consistent performance. A special heat treatment allows the fibres to return to their exact shape after each stroke. This allows artists to switch effortlessly between fine and broad lines with a single brush, depending on the pressure applied.

Enhanced for artistic precision and versatility

The combination of elasticity, shape retention and superior color storage capacity makes Memory Point® brushes an indispensable tool for artists. From detailed patterns to seamless color gradients, these brushes deliver professional results and make every stroke count.

A glimpse inside

This cross-section shows the craftsmanship behind our brushes. The fibers merge seamlessly into the ferrule, ensuring maximum stability and durability. This careful construction not only prevents the fibres from tearing, but also improves the brush's performance and ensures consistent precision with every stroke.

A hallmark of true quality.

MEMORY POINT ROUND

The smallest details can be realized with the fine brush tip. When pressure is applied, the brush widens, which means that wide lines can also be drawn. If the pressure is reduced again, the brush jumps back into its original shape. This makes the round version particularly suitable for quick transitions from fine to thick lines.

KUM® ART SHARPENERS

-excellence in pencil sharpening

Unmatched Craftsmanship -Made in Germany

KUM sharpeners stand as a hallmark of superior German engineering. Crafted with precision, these sharpeners are made for discerning artists and professionals who demand the best. Equipped with razor-sharp, ultra-hard steel blades (65 HRC), KUM sharpeners offer unparalleled performance. These blades are harder than even the finest knives, making them ideal for the sharpening of pencil leads, which consist of graphite and clay - a combination that can be incredibly tough to work with.

Dynamic Torsion Action - Innovating Sharpening Technology

KUM is the only manufacturer globally to equip its sharpeners with a uniquely curved blade. This innovative design ensures that the cutting edges remain under constant tension, preventing them from curling or bending under the pressure during sharpening. As a result, the pencil tip remains intact, preventing any unwanted cracking or splintering. Additionally, the pressure against the screw-head prevents it from lifting or loosening, ensuring the sharpener's longevity and consistent performance.

Precision Sharpening with Magnesium

To achieve the utmost precision, KUM sharpeners are produced using magnesium, a material known for its exceptional ability to hold tight tolerances. This guarantees a flawless sharpening result every time. Magnesium's lightness and strength make it the perfect material for manufacturing high-precision tools, allowing KUM sharpeners to achieve the level of quality that artists and professionals expect.

WALDMEISTER®

The term „Waldmeister“ carries a variety of meanings in the German language. For many, it refers to a plant that thrives in the depths of the forest. However, for us, the combination of „Wald“ (forest) and „Meister“ (master) signifies the perfect fusion of nature's beauty with meticulous craftsmanship, elegance, and sustainability.

This high-quality two-hole pencil sharpener, like all KUM sharpeners, features a blade made of high carbon steel, enhanced by our Dynamic Torsion Action System. The body and lid are crafted from beech wood sourced from sustainably managed forests that adhere to strict reforestation guidelines.

The striking matte glass container with its suede surface, paired with the beech wood lid, makes this sharpener not only a functional tool but a piece of elegance and sophistication, exemplifying the highest standards of design and quality.
